PART- A (Conventional)
(40 Marks)

This Section should be answered only on the Answer Booklet provided.

Mark for each question is indicated against it.

1. Write an essay on any one of the following topics in 400-500 words. (10)
 - (a) The Importance of vaccination in public health
 - (b) Mental Health Awareness and the Role of Healthcare Workers in De-stigmatization
 - (c) The Role of Imagination in Shaping the Future
 - (d) Women Empowerment and Gender Equality: Progress, Challenges, and the Road Ahead
2. As a Senior Nursing Officer at the District Hospital, write a formal letter to the Superintendent of Police regarding severe traffic congestion and reckless driving outside the hospital. Detail how this impacts ambulance movement, patient and public safety, and request them to implement measures such as traffic police deployment, speed breakers, road signs, and speed limit enforcement. Sign as 'XYZ'. (10)
3. Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

The rapid proliferation of digital technology has fundamentally altered the fabric of modern human communication. While social media platforms and instant messaging applications have made global connectivity instantaneous and effortless, they have simultaneously introduced complex psychological and social challenges. One of the most paradoxical outcomes of this digital age is the phenomenon of growing social isolation despite hyper-connectivity. Individuals often find themselves submerged in virtual networks comprising hundreds of online acquaintances, yet they experience a profound lack of meaningful, face-to-face human interaction.

This shift in communication patterns has significant implications for emotional well-being. Digital interactions, though convenient, frequently lack the non-verbal cues—such as eye contact, tone of voice, and body language—that form the bedrock of genuine empathy and deep emotional bonds. Furthermore, the constant exposure to curated, idealized portrayals of other people's lives on social platforms often fosters harmful social comparisons. This dynamic can lead to heightened anxiety, low self-esteem, and a persistent feeling of inadequacy, particularly among younger demographics who are most active online.

Addressing these drawbacks does not require abandoning digital technology altogether, which remains an indispensable tool for education, commerce, and global cooperation. Instead, the solution lies in cultivating digital literacy and conscious usage habits. Establishing clear boundaries between online engagements and offline life, prioritizing real-world relationships, and practicing digital detoxes can help restore equilibrium. Ultimately, technology should serve as a bridge to enhance human connection, rather than a substitute for the authentic, grounded relationships that sustain psychological health and community cohesion.

Questions:

- (a) What is the main paradox of the digital age highlighted in the first paragraph? (2)
- (b) Why do digital interactions often fall short in building deep emotional bonds compared to face-to-face communication? (2)
- (c) How does exposure to idealized social media content affect an individual's psychological well-being? (2)
- (d) What practical measures does the passage suggest to achieve a healthy balance between digital life and real-world relationships? (2)
- (e) Find words from the passage that are closest in meaning to the following: (2×1=2)
 - (i) Essential
 - (ii) Harmony

4. Write a precis of the following passage in about one-third of its original length. Supply a suitable title. (10)

Time management is not merely a tool for professional efficiency; it is a fundamental life skill that dictates personal growth and mental stability. In today's fast-paced world, individuals are constantly inundated with tasks, deadlines, and digital distractions that fragment attention and dilute focus. Many people operate under the mistaken belief that working longer hours translates directly into higher productivity. However, relentless labor without structured organization often leads to chronic fatigue, diminished creativity, and eventual burnout.

True productivity stems from the conscious prioritization of tasks based on their urgency and long-term value. By distinguishing between what is truly essential and what is merely distracting, individuals can allocate their time and energy far more effectively. Developing personal discipline through structured daily routines helps eliminate the paralysis caused by decision fatigue. Setting clear boundaries, learning to delegate tasks, and saying no to trivial interruptions are essential strategies for safeguarding one's focus.

Furthermore, effective time management incorporates periods of rest and reflection, recognizing that continuous mental exertion without recovery degrades the quality of work. Resting is not a reward for completing work; it is a prerequisite for sustained performance and overall well-being. Ultimately, mastering one's time allows individuals to achieve a harmonious balance between professional achievements and personal fulfillment, transforming chaotic busyness into purposeful progress.
